

Duck Creek Parkway

MILES: 12.4

TRAIL SURFACE: Asphalt, concrete

CITIES: Davenport, Bettendorf

DIFFICULTY: Easy

TRAIL DESCRIPTION:

Duck Creek Parkway, serving as the lifeline of the Davenport/Bettendorf park and recreation system, is a 12-mile urban greenbelt located in one of Iowa's oldest cities. It provides a wide variety of scenic and recreational opportunities as it meanders through native woodlands, wetlands, urban housing areas, two golf courses and eight city parks. The asphalt/concrete surface extends over flat and gently rolling terrain, making it an ideal experience for all age groups. The multi-use trail follows the Duck Creek tributary from Emeis Park, in Davenport, to an area north of Devil's Glen Park, in Bettendorf.
